Paris, Mar. 26.—Sarah Bernhardt died peacefully in the arms of her son, Maurice, at one minute before 8 o'clock tonight. In life she had been an amazing power of emotion, a marvelous realism and pathos in her acting of death scenes. At the end of her days she quietly drifted away into eternity, tired after her long fight against death, which she did not wish, but never feared.

Hope for the life of the great actress had long since been abandoned, and half an hour before she passed away those in attendance found her sinking beyond recovery, though knowing her recuperative powers, it was thought she might live throughout the night.

Madame Bernhardt died in a large room on the second floor of her home with windows wide open on the Boulevard Pereire, the noise of trucks and the railroad keeping up a low roar to which she was long accustomed. It was the sudden closing of these windows, opened on the finest day of spring, that gave the signal to those waiting and watching without that Bernhardt was dead.

Death was due to a renewed attack of uraemic poisoning, which began Friday, but the actress astonished her physician by her repeated rallies and her will to live, just as she did last December when hope had been abandoned. A priest was summoned hurriedly in the middle of the afternoon when symptoms of the gravest nature supervened, but Bernhardt rallied and regained lucidity. The priest administered extreme unction, which she acknowledged with faint movements of the hands and head, too weak to speak.

The widow of Edmond Rostand, whose fame is linked with that of Bernhardt and the poet, Maurice Rostand, was at the bedside. Bernhardt's zero at the bedside, brought the first flowers into the death chamber—mauve and white lilies, flowers from many friends—quickly, too, and soon the room was heaped with them, those from the family and dear friends being placed on the bed.

The actress' son, Maurice, aided by the family physician, Dr. Marot, arranged his mother's hair and clothing and readjusted her position on the large bed on which she died facing the windows. This room is filled with antique furniture, chosen by the actress herself, with the walls covered with tapestries, and hung with many autograph photographs of sovereigns and great personages who were her friends.

Seemed a Girl at 10.
Madam Sarah Bernhardt, who at 75 years of age seemed still a girl, was known to every land as "the world's greatest actress." What dissent there might have been to this estimate, and however far her detractors ventured in their attempts to minimize her right to that distinction, the numerous admirers of the "Divine Sarah" remained convinced that never before

Had the stage produced an actress capable of soaring to such heights in the realm of emotional drama.

The work of Mme. Bernhardt was not where a theme afforded the greatest opportunity for a display of her powerful emotions. At the height of her career this form of acting, and principally on love, hate and jealousy, held the predominant place now dedicated to character delineation, and Bernhardt never was surpassed, her critics say, in this emotional school. Hundreds of parts, either written or created to suit her, seldom being content to act them as interpreted by others.

Three generations have gazed and over-worked the art of Bernhardt, and hundreds upon thousands of people around the world have thronged to see and marvel of her acting without understanding the French language, which she knowledgeably employed with ease. Once, in the St. Louis, she was called before the curtain more than 300 times by a wildly enthusiastic audience, and many times, in other parts of the world, she was called to appear more than 100 times at a single performance.

Only Almost Regretful.
The only expression of Bernhardt's regret was when she was asked to drastic incident, off as well as on the stage, it was set down by herself in a lengthy volume published many years ago, and as one of her critics has said, "through the pages of the book peers the face of a woman, a little tired, weary of her own reputation, and blessed with more than her share of the vanities of the world." As she and others have told the story, it is summed up here:

The date of her birth, the record of which was destroyed in the flames of the Communard in Paris, was commonly accepted as October 22, 1846. Her mother was Dutch and Jewish, and her natural father a French official. As a child Bernhardt spent much of her time with relatives in Paris, and at the age of 13 was sent to the Grand Chateau Convent, Versailles, where she made her debut in a little miracle play given by the children. Even at this early age, the pale and sickly child is said to have displayed the fits of temper which were characteristic of her stage career.

After a year or two at the convent, she conceived a passionate desire to become a nun. To this her mother recorded unqualified opposition, and suggested a theatrical career instead. "She's too thin to be an actress," said her god-father. "Let her be a nun."

Did Not Want to Act.
"I won't be an actress," little Sarah categorically exclaimed. "Rachel is a saint." She came to the convent and walked around the garden, then she had to sit down because she could not get her breath. They fetched her something to bring her around, but she was so pale, oh, so pale. I was very sorry for her, and the nuns told me that when she was doing was killing her, for she was an actress, and so I won't be an actress, I won't."

But fate had determined otherwise, and at the age of 14 Bernhardt was sent to a conservatory. At the end of the first year she won second prize for tragedy. A subscription among the players at the Comedie Francaise enabled her to spend another year at the conservatory and upon the completion of this she carried off second prize for comedy. Her first public appearance was at the Comedie Francaise in August, 1862. She took a minor part without any marked success.

Five years later she emerged from laborious obscurity with her first definite success as Cordelia in a French translation of "King Lear" at the Odeon, then as Queen in Victor Hugo's "Raynham," and as Juliet in "Le Parnasse," which she played in 1867.

Then came the Franco-Prussian war. Bernhardt increased her popularity by becoming a war nurse. In 1871 she was made a life member of the Comedie Francaise. She married repeatedly with M. Perri, the manager.

SIGNALING TO WITNESSES BY PURCELL AIDS

Plaintiff's Attorney Charges Those on Stand Being Coached by Assistant of Boston Harbor Club Chief

SEIZE PAPER SLIPS

Hannell's Chief Witness Claims
Writing Part of House of David
Code; No Attempt Made to Learn Meaning

Grand Rapids, Mich., Mar. 26.—Charges in open court by counsel for the plaintiff, that an effort was being made by leaders of the Lincoln House of David to coach defense witnesses in the $20,000 suit of John Hannell and his wife against Benjamin Purcell, head of the Boston Harbor club, continued this afternoon's session of the case before Federal Judge John E. Sater.

Following accusations by Attorney Walter M. Nelson, representing the Hannells, that a representative of the club was signaling to a witness on the stand, Judge Sater announced that if there appeared to be proof of the charges, he would conduct contempt proceedings against the accused after expiration of the present case.

The charges were made during the cross examination of Carl Tucker, of South Bend, a defense witness. Attorney Nelson charged Ada Rose, a girl from the Boston Harbor colony, sitting with attorneys for the defense, was signaling to the witness. The witness, the girl and the attorneys for Purcell hotly denied the imputation. Nelson declared he could prove his assertions if permitted to call spectators as witnesses.

The charges of Attorney Nelson were the third similar accusation he had made during the day. Previously he had called attention to the court to the fact that Mrs. Amanda Keenan, another defense witness, had in her purse several slips of paper to which she referred occasionally. The papers submitted to the court, bore the words "a wise guy" and "ask Esther what she knows about it."

No effort was made in open court to learn the meaning of the writing, but Esther Hannell, daughter-in-law of the plaintiff, and their chief witness, and also a sister of Mrs. Keenan, told newspapermen the sentences were part of a House of David code.

Previous to this incident Attorney Nelson had called the attention of the judge to the fact that Mary Purcell, wife of the cult leader, was leaving the court room frequently. He charged she was talking outside the room with witnesses about to be called.

JOPLIN (MO.) POLICE HOLD MAN WANTED IN ROCHESTER

Rochester, Mar. 26.—Rochester police today learned that R. N. Reed, alias Reeves, alias Wade, has been arrested by the police of Joplin, Mo., after a search which lasted several months. Reed, according to the police here, will be brought to Rochester to answer to several charges of larceny, the complainants being lumber merchants.

The prisoner has operated extensively in cities in the east, it is said. Representing himself to be a well-to-do business man, he would go to lumber merchants and on the pretext that he was building and needed material, he would buy a quantity of lumber and present a check in payment. Always, the police say, the check would be for an amount greater than the purchase price and he would receive the balance in cash.

NEAR STRIKING POINT IN FALL RIVER TEXTILE MILLS

Fall River, Mass., Mar. 25.—Members of unions affiliated with the United Textile Workers of America demanded at a mass meeting tonight that a strike be called by Fall River mills tomorrow morning for a 10 percent increase of 29 1/2 per cent. Angered by the failure of President Thomas F. McMahon of the United Textile Workers to reach the city tonight, in accordance with an "understandings" of the workers insisted that action be taken without this leader.

President McMahon, who is in New York, was reached by telephone and said he would be in Fall River on Wednesday. Finally it was decided to wait the outcome of an executive meeting of the United Textile Workers here Wednesday night at which President McMahon said he would be present.

UNKNOWN MAN IN RIVER

Albany, Mar. 26.—The body of an unidentified man was found in the Mohawk river today at Rotterdam Junction. A river boat with a red steam, and a belt buckle engraved with the letters "E" were on the body. The man was 5 feet 10 inches tall and dressed in a blue shirt, army sweater, and a brown overcoat. He apparently was between 35 and 40.

WOULD EXEMPT VETERANS

Albany, Mar. 26.—A bill designed to allow veterans of all wars an additional exemption of $1,500 from the state income tax was introduced in the lower house by Assemblyman Louis A. Cavillier, Democrat, New York, tonight. The measure was introduced as an aid to war and other veterans. Mr. Cavillier said it would be submitted to the senate as a referendum vote at the next general election.

CUVILLIER AGAIN SUFFERS DEFEAT

Attempt to Bring Up Resolution
Intended to Repeal R. Y.'s
Ratification of 18th
Amendment Fails

Albany, Mar. 26.—An attempt by Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, Democrat, New York, to bring to the floor of the lower house his resolution intended to repeal New York state's ratification of the 18th amendment was defeated tonight by a vote of 65 to 53. The resolution was introduced in committee and Mr. Cuvillier's efforts were directed to a motion to have the committee discharged from further consideration of the bill for the purpose of a record vote.

Russell D. B. Griffith, Republican, Monroe, charged the Democrats were playing politics with the day question. Although he would vote for the Cuvillier motion, he said, he did so because it was anti-prohibition, not because it was a Democratic measure. He charged that the Democratic senate was inconsistent with its party program when it held up the Mulligan-Gage prohibition enforcement legislation while collateral legislation was being defeated in the lower house.

The Democratic minority was charged with increasing the taxes of the state, when it held up the legislation with motion similar to the Cuvillier measure. Assemblyman Mr. Whitney, Republican, Nassau, Mr. McWhinney opposed the motion because it was futile, he said.

CONTINUATION OF VETERAN RELIEF

Assembly Passes Jeffrey Bill Providing Million and Half for World War Disabled

Albany, Mar. 26.—The assembly tonight without opposition passed the Jeffrey bill, carrying an appropriation of $1,500,000 to continue relief work among World War veterans begun by the state last year. The relief is extended to disabled veterans who were not successful in proving disability claims before the Federal Veterans' bureau.

In a statement issued tonight Assemblyman David M. Jeffrey, Republican, Nassau, introduced the measure, reviewed the work of the committee for the past year. Approximately $600,000 was disbursed among 4,407 sick and disabled veterans between May, 1932, and February, 1933, he declared. There were 5,145 applicants for relief and of the 296 whose claims were not allowed, 78 carried their plea to the board of appeals and received relief.

In addition to providing funds for the reorganization, the bill passed tonight reorganizes it, Mr. Jeffrey said. The duties of the commission are transferred to the office of the adjutant general and the work of the commission placed under a new bureau, the disabled veteran bureau. The monthly allotment for dependents is increased from $15 to $16 and the bureau is given authority to grant a maximum sum of $500 to a claimant instead of $250.

STATEWIDE AUTO THEFT ARRESTS

Two Expected to Be Captured in Metropolis; Men Questioned
by Syracuse Police

Syracuse, Mar. 26.—Arrest of two New York men in connection with investigation of state-wide operation of automobile thefts was expected tonight. Fulton and the metropolis were linked by discovery near Fulton of a car stolen from Jacob Swartz, 784 Madison avenue, New York.

Five of the 25 stolen cars thus far recovered are owned in Syracuse while more than twice that number are the property of New York men.

Raymond Hayes, as he gave his name, was questioned at Fulton tonight by officials. A car owned by Hayes was reported stolen in Syracuse recently.

McCallister, Syracuse druggist, was questioned by police and held for further investigation. He was arrested following a statement by Charles Cushman, also being held, that McCallister had made arrangements with Carl Lehman, another prisoner, to have his car "stolen" so insurance could be collected on the machine.

SAUNDERS THREATS TO SUE N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE

(By the Associated Press.)

Memphis, Tenn., Mar. 26.—Charles Saunders tonight announced that he will enter suit "against each of the brokers who was in default" and "in addition thereto, I will sue the New York stock exchange for conspiracy," as a result of failure to deliver Chase National stock of the Fidelity Trust Company, which the company 24 brokers after trades were made during the stormy trading in Fidelity Trust on the New York stock exchange last Tuesday.

Mr. Saunders announced this as his next move in the controversy over the Fidelity Trust trading which put the stock exchange in an awkward position and resulted in the resignation of that stock from the "big board" and a stock exchange order to cancel until today the time for delivery of stock and "short" on the exchange Mar. 26.

COMMUNISTS PARTY STILL FUNCTIONING

Held Session Week Ago Sunday
at Which There Was Dissemination of Illegal Activities of Organization

MEETING RECORDS

Plans Laid for Supplying of Arms in Case of Uprising by Carefully Placing Men in Organizations

(By the Associated Press.)

St. Joseph, Mich., Mar. 26.—The Communist party of America was meeting and functioning as a party of organization and discussing illegal activities as late as a week ago yesterday, according to evidence produced by the state today in the trial of William Z. Foster, charged with violating the criminal syndicalism law of Michigan.

Attacking the claim of Charles E. Ruthenberg, a defense witness and co-defendant with Foster, that the Communist party had passed out of existence last January, merging its identity with the Workers' party, the prosecution on cross examination, won an admission that Ruthenberg had attended a Communist gathering in New York on Sunday, March 18.

Reading from the report of a government agent who also was at the meeting, Charles Gore, prosecutor of Berrien county, recited the alleged events at the New York meeting and in most of essential details the witness agreed the account was correct.

The report of the unnamed government agent who attended the meeting said that the speech was followed by a general discussion in which Ruthenberg answered questions.

The department of justice agents report continues: "The apparatus of the Communist party of America will consist of a very confidential committee which will direct illegal work, such as sending men into the American Legion, the Ku Klux Klan, the army and navy and in case of an uprising this committee will take care of the fighting arms and directing them; also to get people to do the illegal illegal business and do the general work of the party."

Ruthenberg denied that the statement reported what he had actually said. Efforts of the state to get Ruthenberg to admit that the Communist party had issued orders forbidding its members to testify for the government in any court of law were unsuccessful.

Communists, he admitted, would stick together and not testify against each other if it could be avoided. He also agreed that the Berrien county circuit court comes within the Communist definition of "capitalistic courts" which, according to the excerpts read by Mr. Gore, Communists are forbidden to recognize.

WANTS ONE FARMS AND MARKETS HEAD

Governor Smith Attacks Present
System and Would Appoint
Chief of Bureau

Albany, Mar. 26.—Abolition of the State Council of Farms and Markets and the transfer of its powers to one commissioner, to be appointed by the governor, so that both producer and consumer of agricultural products may be benefited was recommended to the legislature tonight in a special message from Governor Smith.

Governor Smith refused to accept responsibility for the department as long as it was not responsible to him. He said the department of the state, by law, he said, it was unresponsive to any program or policy of the executive.

"Neither the council, nor the commissioner appointed by it," he said, "is responsible to the governor for the conduct of the department."

An investigation in 1919 under the Maclean Act, the measure set forth, showed the inadequacy and inefficiency of the department under the administration of the council. The law under which it operates sought to make possible a policy that would aid in solving the high cost of living problem, but so far nothing has been done by the existing department to give the maximum protection to both producer and consumer.

The governor called attention to the "lack of a comprehensive policy" to reduce the cost of food for the state's 10,000,000 people. The state faces a deficiency of about $2,500,000 due to payment for slaughtered cattle. To run up such a bill without making provision for fighting the disease at its source, means nothing short of wasteful, to say nothing of being futile, he declared.

TO COMPLETE ELEVATOR

Albany, Mar. 26.—The Bureau bill, carrying an appropriation of $1,257,000 for the completion of the State Elevator and terminal on the state barge canal at Oswego was passed by the assembly tonight by a vote of 100 to 10. The appropriation will be used to complete the construction and equipment of the million bushel elevator. Assemblyman Ezra A. Barnes, Republican, Oswego, introduced.

STINNES FAVORS ECONOMIC CONFAB

Suddenly Appears in Rome and Represented as Believing U. S.
Best Country for Meeting

(By the Associated Press.)

Rome, Mar. 26.—From conversations Hugo Stinnes, Germany's great industrial figure, has had with the American delegates to the congress of the International Chamber of Commerce, it appears that he came to Rome when he heard of American proposals that a portion or all of the war debts owing to the United States would be remitted after the European states had given assurances they would put their finances in order.

Herr Stinnes came to Rome yesterday, without notice beforehand of his coming, even the German ambassador knowing nothing about it until he learned of the magnate's presence in Rome through the newspapers.

While Stinnes refused to grant an interview today, saying he had no statement to make, it is learned he is in favor of the American suggestion to call an international economic conference at which all the countries interested would be represented by delegates having full powers in order to be able definitely to solve the reparations, interrelated debt and exchange stabilization questions.

He is represented as believing that the United States is the country best adapted for the conference, being outside Europe and unaffected by the influences of the contending parties.

Herr Stinnes is said to be desirous of enlisting the support of Premier Mussolini in the hope that his influence might have a decisive effect on the attitude of most of the other countries.

HURL COBBLESTONE THROUGH WINDOW

Bandits Make Away With $25,000 in Cash From Store, Make Good Their Escape

New York, Mar. 26.—Four bandits today hurled a cobblestone through the door window ordered by David Gumbiner after his Broadway jewelry store had been robbed of $25,000 three years ago and, amid a spray of bullets, fled in a bright yellow taxi with $25,000 worth of goods.

For every policeman in the vicinity to halt, with drawn revolver, every yellow taxi cab he encountered. Soon a taxi was found with empty jewelry trays on the floor, and the driver arrested.

Mrs. Florence Denkert, who was standing across the street, saw the taxi halt in front of Gumbiner's.

Two men stepped out, one raised a cobblestone. Knowing instinctively what was going to happen, Mrs. Denkert screamed for the police. Her cries were heard by Pauline Thomas McLarny, who ran to the woman's side.

In the meantime the cobblestones crashed into the jewelry store. Eager hands took away trays from the window, the taxicab slammed and the vehicle disappeared in the direction of Riverside Drive.

MRS. ANNA BUZZI INDICTED FOR FIRST DEGREE MURDER

New York, Mar. 26.—Mrs. Anna Buzzi was indicted by the Bronx county grand jury today for first degree murder in connection with the slaying on Feb. 26 of Frederick Schneider, wealthy Bronx contractor with whom she had lived.

A few hours before her indictment, Mrs. Buzzi had been taken through a cheering crowd to Magistrate Levine's court for arraignment on a short affidavit on which she had been held. The arraignment was postponed until tomorrow, when the court was told the grand jury was considering the case. The affidavit now probably will be dismissed.

Mrs. Buzzi gave jail attendants a hard time, refusing to go to court in the chilly weather without her coat. The garment, alleged to have been taken from her on the day of the murder, was in possession of the grand jury. An attempt was dispatched hastily and borrowed it.

BONAR LAW SUFFERING FROM THROAT INFECTION

(By the Associated Press.)

London, Mar. 26.—Premier Bonar Law is suffering from a mild throat infection, which interferes with his voice, otherwise his health is good. He intends to take 10 days complete rest from political affairs during the Easter recess.

Rumors of his retirement as prime minister have been repeatedly current since he assumed office, because of his uncertain health and because of the possibility that he might be unable to stand the prolonged strain of office. But the premier was in his place in parliament today answering questions, and there is nothing to show any immediate likelihood of his retirement.

Resolutions of the Greater New York Anti-Slavery League were also passed.

The resolution, moved by Mr. Anthony, was adopted by the Greater New York Anti-Slavery League.

Aid of Dead Woman Sought in Effort to "Shake $50,000
From Chairman as Price of Silence"

New York, Mar. 26.—A $1,000 Liberty bond, a valuable jade bracelet gifts of John Kearney Mitchell, wealthy Philadelphia clubman, to Dorothy Keenan, slain model, set detectives on a new trail and offered a new clue to the slayer tonight. The bond and bracelet, as well as several hundred dollars in cash, were given the model by Mitchell on his visit to her apartment on Mar. 14, but were missing when her body was found the next day, authorities said.

Details of the plot to "shake down" Mitchell for $50,000 as the price for silence concerning his relations with Miss Keenan, were revealed by Assistant District Attorney Frederic M. Keenan, he said had been apprehended a few days before her murder and an attempt was made to enlist her aid in the conspiracy.

The plotter, whose identity was known and who was said to have been a confederate, sought to obtain the $50,000 from Mitchell by threatening to reveal to the public the details of the plot. Mr. Keenan said. Whether Miss Keenan refused to be a party to the plot, or whether she was coerced into it, is not known. The plotter, however, was said to have been a party to the plot.

SPECTACULAR COSTS FIVE LIVES

Believed to Have Been Started by Drunken Man Throwing
Lighted Cigaret in Subway

New York, Mar. 26.—A spectacular fire, which today swept the Broadway subway station at 57th street, caused chiefly by members of the Irish trial procession killed two, injured many, and left one unconscious tonight.

The blaze, believed to have been started by a drunken man throwing a lighted cigar in the hallway, spread rapidly to the upper floors of the station building. Firemen fought the blaze for several hours, but it was not until 11:30 p.m. that it was finally brought under control.

There were many dramatic escapes and rescues. One of the most spectacular was that of Henry Hughes, a former Times reporter, who came to New York to study art.

After getting his wife and child in the street, he was seen to throw a lighted cigar in the hallway, which started the fire. He was seen to throw a lighted cigar in the hallway, which started the fire. He was seen to throw a lighted cigar in the hallway, which started the fire.

MOBS KILL 83 WOMEN

Cruel Tortures Applied to Some of Them, Says Church Report.

But Four States to the Union Never Had to Report Lynching—Only Sixteen Free of the Crime in Last Ten Years.

Washington.—An alarming number of women have been killed by mobs in the United States in recent years, the Federal Council of Churches declared in a statement.

"Since 1920," the council said, "there have been 83 women killed by mobs. Some of them were put to death with savage tortures, such as burning and dismembering."

Such brutality, the council declared, might be expected "in pagan times or heathen countries, but by no means in a civilized land today."

"The total number of persons lynched by years gives a startling picture of lawlessness," the council said. "There is a slow decrease from the climax in 1922 and 1923 down to 1928. During the latter year and 1929 there was an increase, then another slow decrease until 1932, when the tendency to decrease was again manifested."

Only four states have never had a lynching, according to the council—Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Vermont. Three states have had no lynchings since 1920—New Jersey, Utah and Connecticut.

"Eight other states," the council said, "have had a clear record during the last ten years. They are Nevada, Colorado, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Delaware and Pennsylvania. "This means that only 28 per cent of the states have not had a lynching in the last ten years."

Civil War Conscription.
During the Civil war both sides resorted to conscription. May 3, 1863, the Federal government passed a law calling every able-bodied citizen of military age into service. However, many persons were able to buy themselves off on payment of $300, or by obtaining a substitute. In July of the same year the Union called all men between eighteen and forty-five into active service, without provision for exemption. In February, 1864, the law was extended to include all between seventeen and fifty. Unpopularity of conscription caused draft riots in New York and other places.

The first Confederate conscription law of April, 1862, annulled all contracts for volunteers for short terms, holding them for two years, and made every white male between eighteen and twenty-five liable to service at a moment's notice. In September, 1862, the law was extended to all men between eighteen and forty-five.

Animal Sees Itself in Mirror.

A mirror is one of the toys which monkeys delight to play with. All animals can see a reflection in a glass, if it is held in the right position, that is, at an angle at which their eyes can focus upon it. Even then, however, it may not recognize the image. The reflection has, it is true, form, but it lacks other characteristics, such as smell, and many beasts will turn away bored from what looks something like an animal, but obviously isn't. On the other hand, another animal will recognize the image as one of its kind, and will exhibit every symptom of curiosity, fear, or hate. But in no case does the animal appear to recognize the reflection as that of itself.

Richard Kneeb.
The children at school had been getting vaccinated and that was all they could talk about. The Sunday before they had seen a man baptized at church and that was new to them. A few days later they were talking to each other about those things and Richard, age six, said in a "I know-I'm-right voice": "Mother, when vaccination and baptizing the same thing?"

DIVER SARAH

her, over which she should take, and one in a fit of pique had from the theatre and decided to give up the stage. She plunged into sculpture. Her first piece, "After the Storm"—dashed some years later—was a piece in the Salon. She returned to M. Perrin, only to break with him again, drawing a forfeit of 4,000 pounds, which she paid.

Times T. R. Night Times.

She invaded England, receiving a tremendous ovation, then toured Denmark and Russia. Next she came to America, where her success was instantaneous. She toured the United States and Canada eight times in some 35 years, and appeared several times in the larger cities of South America.

Breaking with the theatrical syndicates, which denied her the use of their theatres when she refused to come to their terms, she was compelled to appear on one of her American tours in tents, convention halls and armories. She vowed never to appear in a theatre again, but on subsequent visits she came to terms with the syndicates.

The great actress was a grandmother when she last appeared in America, and had suffered amputation of her right leg. Upon her arrival in New York, October, 1915, it was evident to the group of friends and admirers who gathered to welcome her that she walked with extreme difficulty.

While playing in New England she contracted a severe cold which prompted her to take a trip south for her health. A few weeks later she underwent an operation for infection of the kidney, and although more than 70 years of age, she enjoyed complete recovery and remained in America for several months.

The injury to her knee which compelled the amputation of her leg in 1915 was attributed to many different causes. For years before the amputation the plays in which she appeared were altered to hide the fact that she was able to walk only with great difficulty. The operation was performed in Paris, and upon her recovery she reappeared on the stage to receive the greatest ovation of her career. Her manager announced that henceforth she would interpret only motionless roles.

Often Visited French Front.
During the World War Bernhardt made several trips to the French front and gave a number of performances for the soldiers. This, she declared, was the "incomparable event" of her life.

The memoirs of Bernhardt sedulously avoid any mention of her marital experience, and only in the middle of the bulky volume does she mention casually the existence of a son. One of her critics declared that "she never seemed to find the man who could master her."

"There was in her," he continued, "the making of a super-woman, and the greatest intellectual potentialities of her time, the super-man, who alone could hold her, never entered her life."

Years ago a jealous rival of her theatrical career published a satire entitled "The Story of Sarah Bernhardt," in which the love-affairs of the actress, real and alleged, were shamelessly laid bare. Bernhardt resorted to the horse-whip to punish the author.

In 1912 the actress was married to Jacques Damale, a handsome Greek, who had made a name in the theatrical world through his work in "The Ironmaster." He later took a minor part in one of her plays, but after a year on tour they separated. Later she took him back to her home and nursed him through a fatal stage of consumption.

Mrs. Bernhardt's natural son, Maurice, showed no inclination to follow the profession of his mother, and after spending a short time in the French army, he married a Russian princess. She died after bearing him a daughter, and Maurice Bernhardt took a Parisienne as his second wife.

Stories of Fabulous Wealth.

Many stories have been told of the fabulous sums accruing to the famous actress, especially in America, but authenticated figures show that the gross receipts of each tour were in the neighborhood of $500,000, of which she usually received fifty per cent. A large part of her earnings was reinvested in theatrical enterprises, and at one time she owned or controlled half a dozen playhouses in Paris.

Of the more than 200 parts Bernhardt essayed during her long stage career, perhaps the boldest experiment of all was the title role in a French production of Hamlet, which met with such remarkable success that she was prompted to appear again as a man in "L'Aiglon." Her repertoire, in addition to the plays mentioned, included "Jean de Arc," "Fedora," "Adrienne Lecouvreur," "Rappe," "Theodora," and "Hernani." Her great success, however, seemed to center in the Eliza and Cordelia dramas, both tragedies and comedies. Many of these plays were written around her, and "Dressed like a glove."

A physical description of Bernhardt is difficult. In her youth she undoubtedly was what might be called beautiful, although from the French standpoint her features were against her. The greatest interest in the actress aside from her art, was the tenacity with which she clung to her girlish appearance. At 75 she might have passed for a woman of 30, so well had the features of her youth or days been preserved.

Bernhardt seems to have had no doubts about her personal appearance. By themselves her features—high cheek bones, aquiline nose, and lips parted above an almost masculine chin—were not pleasing, but when together they composed the harmony of expression which gave her the title of "the divine Sarah." She admitted on one occasion that the effect of her long white hair covering from a long black streak was by no means pleasant. "In this life I look like an owl," she said.

Famous For South Seas.

Bernhardt was the most famous, for her death came, but it is difficult to say whether she was a success or a failure. Her death came, but it is difficult to say whether she was a success or a failure. Her death came, but it is difficult to say whether she was a success or a failure.

appeals from her various physical ailments, of which she never was healed completely.

Patience seemed to have been one of Bernhardt's inherent characteristics. She would spend weeks and even months trying to correct technical faults in some member of her company and then, if the subject failed to improve, she would upbraid and have nothing more to do with him either on or off the stage—not even speaking to him under any circumstances.

She always displayed a keen interest in the heart affairs of her troupe, and delighted in holding a "cupid's court," in her private car, at which she would require agricultural scenes and the objects of their affections to submit their difference—Bernhardt to be the final arbiter.

Another of her pastimes was gambling, although she was a poor loser. She remained jovial and vivacious as long as the game was running in her favor, but the moment her luck changed she became sullen and sarcastic. Her opponents, once they had lost to her, knew that it was gone for good, for she would throw down her cards and leave the game at the first sign of reverse.

A love for strange pets was another of Bernhardt's peculiarities. When she was a little girl she saved her money and bought a goat. She learned to love the animal so much that she wanted to become a goat-herd, and cried when her mother ridiculed the idea. During the Franco-Prussian war she raised geese for the soldiers, but grew to care so much for them that she refused to have them killed. Once in London she bought a lion-cub, a tiger and two chameleons at an auction sale. Another time she bought a baby elephant, but it grew itself out of a home. She tried for years to find a dwarf elephant, but never succeeded. The conviviality of the dinner table was another of Bernhardt's delights. She particularly enjoyed a feast at midnight, after a performance, when the members of her company were present. She drank in moderation, and seldom touched anything but champagne. She never was known to smoke.

Often Slept in Coffin.
Two of the treasures in her Paris home invariably excited the interest of visitors. One was the skull given her by Victor Hugo, on which he had written autograph verse to the actress, and the other was the coffin in which she occasionally slept. This strange bed, she explained, was padded with "memories of her dead life"—faded rose leaves and letters yellow with age.

She once expressed a wish that this coffin be her final resting place, and in 1923 the idea was elaborated upon when she bought for $100 from the French government a little granite island in the Bay of Biscay, near her summer home at Belle Isle, where she planned to build a magnificent tomb crowned with a marble statue of her herself, the arms outstretched as if beckoning to harrassed fishermen imperiled by the storms.

Death had a weird fascination for Bernhardt, and for years she contemplated it with what appeared to be an uncanny humor. The wish she most often expressed was that she might die in the midst of her triumphs. "I shall play until death," she said, "and the death I hope for is the death Sir Henry Irving died."

After a long illness, Bernhardt, after being stricken with apoplexy, after a performance in 1925. Toward the end of 1932, it was thought this desire might shorten her life considerably, for while she was dangerously ill in her Paris home, she pined for iron will against the physicians and prepared to resume her part in a new play by Sacha Guitry that she was playing in when stricken. She felt the end was near, her sick-room attendants said, and wanted to be acting a leading role when death rang down the curtain.

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles. Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, an ambition or energy trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for cod liver.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

LOCAL NEWS

There will be a special Passion Week service Tuesday evening at 7:30 at the Methodist church. The pastor will preach.

There was a large attendance at the banquet and meeting of Ontario chapter, R. A. M., last evening. The 15-piece Masonic orchestra played during the musical meal and during the meeting the Chapter quartet harmonized with pleasing effect.

FINE INSTRUMENTAL CLUB.

Ontario Musical Club Have Adopted New Methods of Orchestra Work.

In the concert to be given at the high school on the evening of April 7 by the Hamilton College Musical Club under the auspices of the American Legion one of the outstanding features will be the instrumental club. The phrase "instrumental club" as a rule covers a multitude of sins. This 16-piece combination of exceptional talent has "packed up its gear" and synchronizes them forth with advanced harmonies that they have advanced a good many degrees beyond recognition.

The instrumental club is well balanced. Careful selection has been used in obtaining a group that is at once adaptable to modern music and fulfills all the requirements of harmony. A serious attempt has been made not only to interpret modern tendencies in composition but to adapt old, beautiful and popular melodies to rhythmic musical expression. Charles R. Langtry, who leads the club, has had a number of years' experience in orchestra work. Mr. Langtry uses an orchestra that is very similar to that of the Palais Royal band of Paul Whiteman.

Superb as is this complete orchestra, better still is its heart, the Hamilton Five, which will play for dancing after the concert. This organization is well known in many colleges and throughout Central New York as the orchestra most seductive to "tripping the light fantastic."

Regular meetings Centennial lodge, No. 447, in I. O. O. F. temple, tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Initiatory degree team please be present for rehearsal. The Red Cross baby clinic will be held in the Community house this afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock.

The Ladies Aid society of the United Presbyterian church will hold their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Joseph Birdsall, 54 West street, Tuesday evening at 7:30. There will be an election of officers and a covered dish luncheon. A good attendance is desired.

Stated meeting Queen Amelia court, No. 64, O. of A., at Masonic hall, this evening at 7:30. Initiation.

Meetings Today.

Intelligence was received yesterday that H. D. Wheeler and party, who are coming north with the body of Mrs. Wheeler, will not reach New York city until this afternoon. It is not certain now at what time they will reach Ontario.

COUNCIL CHURCH, APPROVES

By Unanimous Vote of Members Present
Ontario Council on Religion in Four
Main, Church, Center and Carleton Streets.

At a special meeting of the common council held yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, with Mayor Miller and Aldermen Bolton, Deery, Landon and Morris present, resolutions were passed concerning the decision of the board of public works to pave Main street from Lathrop to Third, Church in its entire length. Center from Church to the Ontario creek bridge, and Carleton street. The action was taken without dissent.

Chairman Hoyt said that the council were present and the former, speaking for the commission explained their action, the reasons for the decision reached and the necessity for each as viewed by the commission. He said that it was deemed wise to secure the asphaltic concrete with a bituminous surface for Main street and that it would be to the advantage of the city to make the contract one that would attract a large contracting firm, one capable to do the job in one year. It will require extensive machinery and equipment and a sizable contract will attract and a better price will be secured and undoubtedly a better job.

Alderman Deery said that some taxpayers in the sixth ward had expressed a conviction that there are other streets in that ward that require improvement and it is thought by some that these streets deserve attention before Carleton street.

Chairman Hoyt stated that the situation had been carefully considered. It was found that to keep Carleton street in condition requires a larger outlay than the interest on the city's share of the permanent improvement. The city must keep it possible. The oil company, the Elmore plant and the city's oil tanks are on the street and all the property owners having petitioned for its improvement and being willing to pay their share of the cost, it was deemed the wise course to make the improvement and save the budget for work on the dirt streets. Then, he added, Mr. Elmore is desirous of building another large storage building on the vacant lot next to the D. & H. tracks which will be an added improvement and increase the taxable property on the street.

In view of the statement of Mr. Hoyt and the opinion of the commission that it would be cheaper to permanently improve Carleton street than to repair from year to year the council united in this view and approved the decision as wise.

Notices of the public hearings relative to the four streets appear elsewhere in this issue. The date is Tuesday evening, April 10th.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

County Officers Visit Schuyler Lake and Report Active Organization.

The county leaders of the Christian Endeavor society recently visited the organization in Schuyler Lake and are enthusiastic about the work being done there. The visitors were J. H. Woodward, president, and E. Lester Townsend, vice president, of the county society, and Ralph Hannay, chairman of the tenth legion.

"Schuyler Lake is full of Christian Endeavor enthusiasm and active with its work. The Junior and intermediate societies are a real drawing card for the young people of the town. The singing is particularly strong point of all of the meetings, and a point from which many of the county organizations might well draw a good example. In fact the entire conduct of that society might be copied by others in the county."

RAPID CONFERENCE

With Representatives From Thirteen
Vicinity Churches Held at First Baptist Church Here Thursday.

A conference was held at the First Baptist church here yesterday under the auspices of the Board of Promotion for the Northern Baptist convention and thirteen of the vicinity Baptist churches were represented. The convention was to keep up the interest in the New World Movement which was started in 1919, and to give the churches some idea of the results which have already been accomplished.

The churches represented were the three Baptist churches of this city, and the Baptist churches in Morris, Hartwick, Mt. Vernon, West Ontario, Schenectady, Westford, Mt. Upton, New Berlin, Franklin, and Oswego. The churches were represented by the ministers or by members of the laity, or by both, and a very interesting as well as profitable conference it was.

Rev. F. C. Wright, D. D., associate secretary to Ministers' and Missionaries' Benefit board, and Dr. James H. Franklin, foreign secretary of the Baptist Foreign Missionary society were in the city and spoke at both meetings, one in the afternoon and the other a mass meeting in the evening.

At the afternoon session both of the leaders spoke very briefly in order that considerable time might be spent in the consideration of questions and suggestions asked or made by the representatives of the vicinity churches.

In the evening two popular addresses were given. Dr. Wright spoke on New World Movement. Dr. Wright, who had spent many years in the different mission fields illustrated his remarks with gleanings from his travels.

TRANSFERRED TO WALTON

L. V. Rose Made Superintendent of
Southern Division of S. N. Y.
Power Company.

Leslie V. Rose of this city has been appointed superintendent of the southern division of the Southern New York Power company with headquarters in Walton and has already taken up his duties at that place. This division comprises the electric light plants at Walton, Hancock and Depoit.

Mr. Rose was formerly assistant to General Manager Haverly. When that gentleman resigned some weeks ago the territory of the company was divided into two sections, the southern and northern divisions. F. R. Chambers, local manager for the New York State Gas and Electric corporation, was given the additional duties of manager of the northern division and now Mr. Rose has been promoted to the management of the southern division.

Mr. Rose's family will remain in Ontario until he can secure suitable quarters for them in Walton.

Guests from Czechoslovakia.

The Misses Anna Schindlerova and Rokyta Kucerova of Prague, Czechoslovakia, and Miss Margaret Laidlaw of New York city, students of Vassar college, are guests for the week of Miss Elizabeth Brownell at the home of the latter's parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Brownell of this city. The first-named two young ladies are members of a party of five students sent by the Czechoslovak government to American colleges. Of these one each is a student of Smith, Mt. Holyoke and Wellesley, and two above named of Vassar. Though coming to this country less than a year ago with no knowledge of the English tongue, they have already attained remarkable proficiency in its use.

Members of the Christian Endeavor society of the First Presbyterian church had the pleasure on Sunday evening of listening to Miss Schindlerova, who gave an interesting discourse on the customs of the people of her native land.

Last Concert of Season Given at Maxey
Theatre Last Evening—House
Packed With Appreciative Audience.

Gardner's Philharmonic orchestra presented its second and last concert of the present season at the Maxey theatre last evening to audiences which filled the house. All of the concerts of this popular local organization are certain to be excellent entertainment but the all Schubert program which was given last evening seemed to receive the best reception of any concert heard in the city for some time.

The first number was the first movement unfinished Symphony in B minor. With the full orchestra of eight-five or more musicians the program secured an excellent start. The work of Professor Gardner is very known throughout this vicinity so it is needless to say more than that with the very large number of instruments their work was exceedingly creditable to an amateur organization.

John Canning gave a violin solo as the second number, ballet music from Rossini, transcribed by Kreisler. The solo was of almost perfect rendition and was loudly applauded. As the third number the strings of the orchestra gave Scherzade which was very effective. The bass solo, My Abode by LaVern E. Pierce, was very good and an encore was demanded by the audience. Miss Irene Hays accompanied him on the organ.

As the closing number March Militaire, Number One, in D major, was much enjoyed and it was with reluctance that the audience realized that the program was concluded. But the organization has taken a firm grip on the musical life of the city and in all probability will be heard again next season.

A STORY OR TWO

A negro sergeant was drilling recruits, one of whom was exceedingly bow-legged. "Boy, stand at attention!" he barked. "It's at attention, sergeant," protested the bow-legged. "You may be at attention, from you knees up, but from you knees down you're at parade rest."

A commercial traveler, having waited two hours at a sleepy little country station for a train, began to feel slightly bored, says the Boston Globe. "I suppose," said he, sarcastically, to the solitary man in whom was embodied the station staff, "nobody ever gets killed on this line, do they?" "Don't be so sure," said the old man in reply. "Only last year young Tompkins, who was killed by his girl, committed suicide by laying himself on the rails just along here." "But he did not get run over, did he?" asked the traveler. "Why, of course he did," returned the other. "How do you think he was killed?" "Well," thought perhaps the poor chap died from exposure," was the answer.

MERRITT S. ROBERTS

Aged 10—son of East Meredith who died on Sunday—was killed Monday on a brief business trip to Windsor.

Merritt S. Roberts, whose death on Sunday at his home in East Meredith was briefly noted in The Star of yesterday, was born November 7, 1912, on the original Roberts' homestead in the town of Kortright about half way between East Meredith and Oneonta. He was the son of Joseph Worden Roberts and Mary Seely, both descendants of Revolutionary soldiers.

He was a member of the American Revolution.

When Mr. Roberts was about a year old the family moved to the present Roberts homestead near East Meredith, which has been in the possession of the family for over 100 years. He received his early education in the district school of the vicinity and later attended the Fergusville academy, a famous boarding school at that time. On October 20, 1932, he was united in marriage to Adella Brownell, who died on February 27, 1919. To them were born four children, two of whom, James A. Roberts and Mary M. Roberts, died in infancy. The surviving children are Joseph L. Roberts, proprietor of the homestead farm, and Miss George E. Moore of this city. There are also five grandchildren, Mrs. J. J. Connor and Mrs. Jay McClintock of East Meredith, Merritt S. Roberts, 2nd, of Mechanicville, and Miss Leona M. Moore and Edwin R. Moore of this city, and one great-grandchild, Donald W. Connor.

Mr. Roberts was the oldest member of Oneonta lodge, F. & A. M., having joined the lodge in 1904. The lodge of that time occupied premises in the upper part of a small frame building which stood on the present location of the Citizens National bank. He was also a member of Debi chapter, No. 249, R. A. M.

Mr. Roberts took great pride in his Masonic affiliations and attended a lodge meeting in this city when over 90 years old.

Mr. Roberts was a farmer throughout his life. The homestead was little more than a wilderness when it came into possession of the family and he helped cut the timber and convert the land into one of the most productive farms in the county. In his active days he dealt considerably in real estate, owning at one time or another most of the land in the vicinity. He was not active in politics although he served the town of Kortright for two years as a member of the board of supervisors of Delaware county. During the Civil war he was recruiting officer for the 11th New York Volunteer Infantry.

The funeral services will be held on Wednesday. There will be a prayer service at the home at 12 o'clock and services will be conducted by Rev. Willis Kilpatrick at the East Meredith Presbyterian church at 1 o'clock. Burial will be made in the family plot in the East Meredith cemetery, the Oneonta Masonic lodge being in charge of the services at the grave.

The long life of Mr. Roberts was distinguished throughout by earnestness of purpose, kindness of heart, brightness of character and a charity of thought and deed which was alike notable and uncommon. As few in the community or in his county had attained to such length of days, so there were few if any who had kept for a period far beyond the biblical span of life so wide a circle of friends and such heartfelt regard.

Devoted to the wife of his youth, whose death closed a happy married life of three score and seven years, his was the sorrow, as it was the love that never dies; and unquestionably death was to him but the joy of anticipated reunion.

In the many years of his life he had formed a multitude of friendships, and in the community where he resided he had been more than mere neighbor; he was a confidant and adviser, whose advice in matters of importance was sought and always gratefully and wisely given; he was a friend who never failed when called upon; he was a man of wide experience and sound judgment, and his counsel could always be relied upon.

The long span of his life had naturally before its close withdrawn him from the sphere of business activities, yet to the end he kept an intelligent interest in the affairs of community, state and nation. It was a well-rounded life he lived, and in both his memory is to the beloved family a precious heritage.
